WALKING REPLACES DRIVING — Residents in the Village of Mishicot got a real taste of flood waters Monday when they stepped from their homes. Due to warm temperatures and an abundance of rain over the weekend, mounting to nearly three inches, otherwise normal waters of the East Twin River began to overflow and flood streets and homes in the village. Two residents stand in the middle of the village main street and talk with one of the volunteer fire fighting teams pumping water on the burning home of Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt. The young woman decided driving was impossible so she rolled up the legs of her slacks and chose to wade to her destination.

ROARING WATER—The West Twin River Monday was a raging inferno of white water as it swept under the bridge at Shoto. The dam gates at the village are always open but the heavy to the bed of the river spread out in the lowlands. The flood tide was caused by snow and rain over the holiday weekend.
